BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

On Tuesday, November 16, 1915, "Aunt" Josephine Perkins was 82 years old, and several of her neighbors decided to give her a birthday surprise. For several days preparations were made, and about 9 a. m. the first ones arrived but aroused no suspicion as she thought they had come to see Mrs. S. B. Perkins, but when others soon came and all went to "Aunt Josie's" apartments and began to deposit various edibles on the kitchen table and informed her that they had come to celebrate her birthday, then she "tumbled" to the various hints that had been thrown out the last few days.

The surprise was complete. "Aunt Josie" said she knew she had outlived nearly all of her kinsfolk and that she had some very good neighbors, but did not think anyone had enough interest in her to remember her birthday; but on seeing so many she wept for joy.

At the noon hour sumptuous lunch was served, most of which was brought by the guests. The day was most pleasantly spent in conversation—there not being a man present—in recounting old-time experiences and present day topics.

"Aunt" Josie is especially grateful to Mrs. Chas. Hopkins, Mrs. Frank Resinger, Mrs. Mabry McClintock, Mrs. Zeno Smith and "Aunt Betty" Resinger for substantial remembrances.

Although past the four-score mile stone, Mrs. Perkins is hale and hearty, doing all of her household work and hopes to live to see the day when women will be granted the right to vote.

Beware of Cheap Substitutes

In these days of keen competition it is important that the public should see that they get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and not take substitutes sold for the sake of extra profit. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has stood the test and been approved for more than forty years. Obtainable everywhere. (adv.)

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

The President of the United States, following the national custom of more than half a century, has designated Thursday, November 25, 1915, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer.

The people, since the observation of the first Thanksgiving by the Plymouth Colony in 1671, have ever been thankful for the blessings enjoyed in both State and National life.

The past year has been one richly laden with achievements and blessings. Governmental principles have been help sacred, and the American Republic, of all the great powers, is at peace with mankind. In our nation, now the center of finance, agriculture and commerce, the sound of church and school bells, undisturbed, calls our children to education and religion; our millions of men of brawn march daily to the loom and the foundry, the mine and the factory, the plow and the business mart, the bank and the house of commerce; the song of industry and husbandry is heard in the land, and our citizens are happy in the blessings of government, business and peace vouchsafed for them; our fields are laden with the fruits of honest toil and not marked with war's crimson path; the rumble of the wheels of commerce have not been supplanted by the rumble of the wheels of cannon; the grand army of happy toilers has not been converted into an army of marching soldiers; and the song of happiness has not been hushed in the cry of sorrow. We can in this year thank the Master as seldom before.

Peace, plenty and prosperity, garnished with the highest there is in the civilization of the world are ours. Missouri, as a State, has received her full share in all things good, and has advanced in all the ways which make it great. Every department of religious, social and industrial life has enjoyed an exceptional degree of progress, and we should show our deep appreciation by giving thanks to the God who presides over the destinies of men.

Now, therefore, I, Elliott W. Major, Governor of the State of Missouri, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November, 1915, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and request the people of the Commonwealth to rest from their labors and return thanks to Almighty God for the generous blessings we enjoy. In addition to the usual general worship, let every citizen from the humblest to the greatest, from the poorest to the richest, from the nonprofessor to the Christian, at ten o'clock on the morning of the 25th day of November, stop wherever he may be, cease his labors and offer thanks and a silent prayer to the Master for his individual and home blessings, and the blessing enjoyed in State and in Nation, to the end we may have prayers of thanksgiving for blessings received, offered at the same time by the three and a half million citizens of the Commonwealth of Missouri.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal (SEAL) of the State of Mo.

Done at the City of Jefferson this Sixth day of November, A. D. 1915.

By the Governor:
ELLIOTT W. MAJOR,
CORNELIUS ROACH,
Secretary.

DETAILS OF THE GERMAN 42-CENTIMETER GUN

Although the 42-cm. gun used by the Germans in battering down the fortifications at Liege and Namur attracted worldwide attention during the early stages of the war, the secret of its dimensions and other features has been so jealously guarded that practically nothing has been made public in regard to this monster mortar, beyond the terrible destruction wrought by it. At a recent meeting of Artillery engineers at Dusseldorf, Germany, an engineer of the Krupp works delivered a lecture on the making of heavy artillery and particularly on the making of the 42-cm. guns, or the "Big Berthas," as the Germans call them, and an apparently reliable report of this lecture has been transmitted to this country. According to this report, which appears in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine, the big gun weighs about 97 1-2 tons, while the base on which it stands when in firing position weighs 41 1-4 tons.

The barrel is 16 feet long, and the shell fired from it is about 50 inches long and weighs 880 pounds. The gun is far too big to be transported on any kind of gun carriage. It is made up of considerable more than 100 pieces, and must be taken apart and loaded on motor trucks, of which 12 are said to be required, when it is to be moved.

No one not connected with the German artillery is ever permitted near the 42-cm. gun when it is in firing position. It is said that no photographs have ever been made of it, the pictures purporting to represent this gun, widely published at the beginning of the war, being in fact photographs of the 30-cm. Krupp and Skoda mortars.
